Our stories: In the evening

In the evening in Bangladesh the men go to restaurants to eat and talk about politics. If they buy food they get free tea. The women walk in groups to go and visit the neighbours. In Italy people like to drink beer and eat and the women might go for a walk but in Spain people go to bars and discos to dance. In Portugal there are bars called taverna but these are for the men. The women meet at 5pm to drink tea made with lemon. In Valencia the workers drink after work. They stand outside the front of the bar and drink beer from the bottle. In Ghana everyone sits under a big tree around a fire and the old people tell stories and the young people dance.
